TABLE OF CONTENTS

Chapter 1. Kazakhstan at a Glance ........................................................ 6
  1.1 Geography ................................................................................................. 6
  1.2 Population ................................................................................................. 7
  1.3 Culture .................................................................................................... 10
  1.4 Political Structure ................................................................................... 12
  1.5 Transition and Reform ............................................................................ 15
  1.6 Conclusion .............................................................................................. 21

Chapter 2. Macroeconomic Overview ................................................. 23
  2.1 Political and Economic Context ............................................................. 23
  2.2 Evolution after 1991 ............................................................................... 23
    2.2.1 Independence Shock: 1991-1992 ...................................................... 24
    2.2.2 Structural Reform: 1993-1998........................................................... 24
    2.2.3 Quasi-Market Economy: 1998-2002 ................................................. 27
    2.2.4 Current Trends: 2003-2004 ............................................................... 28
  2.3 Macroeconomic Trends .......................................................................... 29
  2.4 Sectoral Patterns by Activities and by Ownership.................................. 31
    2.4.1 General Makeup of the Economy...................................................... 31
    2.4.2 Non-Oil Sector................................................................................... 33
    2.4.3 Oil Economy...................................................................................... 33
  2.5 Credit and Financial System................................................................... 34
  2.6 Agriculture, Land and Rural Development............................................. 36
  2.7 Modernization and Industrialization and Foreign Direct Investment.... 37
  2.8 Industrial Structure: Large Firms and SME's ......................................... 39
  2.9 Science and Technology ......................................................................... 40
  2.10 Government and Economic Policy ....................................................... 41
  2.11 Development Strategy........................................................................... 43
  2.12 International Organizations................................................................... 44
  2.13 Conclusion ............................................................................................ 46

Chapter 3. Trade and FDI .................................................................... 47
  3.1 Basic Statistical Trends........................................................................... 47
  3.2 Comparative Advantages, International Competitiveness, Trade and Economic Growth....................................................................................... 48
    3.2.1 State of the Raw Materials Industry .................................................. 49
    3.2.2 State of Transportation Infrastructure ............................................... 50
    3.2.3 State of Agriculture ........................................................................... 51
  3.3 Import and Export Composition .............................................................. 52
  3.4 FDI Flows: Sources, Activities, Ownership, Joint Ventures ............... 53
  3.5 Trade Policy and Regulation, Including Exchange Rate Policy .......... 54
  3.6 FDI Policy and Regulations..................................................................... 55
  3.7 Financial International Flows, Policy and Regulations ......................... 56
  3.8 The External Debt .................................................................................. 57
  3.9 Expected Policy Reforms....................................................................... 59
  3.10 Conclusion ............................................................................................ 61
Acknowledgment

This project has been implemented by a team of faculty members of KIMEP (Kazakhstan Institute of Management and Strategic Research). The main responsibility of Sharon Eicher were Chapters 1 and 2, of Kairat Mynbaev – Chapters 3 and 5 and of Bolat Tatibekov – Chapter 4. Conceptually and technically more challenging Chapters 6 and 7 and the monograph part (Annex C) were written by Sabit Khakimzhanov, helped by his Master student Aidan Islyami. Sharon Eicher also did English editing of the first five chapters. Kairat Mynbaev coordinated the KIMEP team.

Along with publicly available sources, we used the data provided by the Agency of Statistics of Kazakhstan directly to KIMEP and ILO. Where reference is made to the Agency and no year of publication or pages are indicated, it means that we used the Agency files. The contribution of the Agency is gratefully acknowledged.

The valuable suggestions by the ILO referees helped to shape the final version of the project report.