Globalization is a term which is used in many different ways. For purposes of this dialogue, it might be understood as the progressive integration of economies and societies, driven by the new technologies of information and communication; by common policies of liberalisation of trade and capital markets; and by cross border systems of enterprise and production. This process is currently evolving within a framework of international agreements covering a variety of areas, ranging from trade, finance and corporate responsibility, to human rights and sustainable development. This framework is still fragmented and lacks systemic coherence.

The social dimension of globalization refers to the impact of this process on the life and work of people, their families, and the societies in which they live. It includes questions of identity, community and values, as well as issues of employment, social protection, health and education.

The ultimate aim of the Commission is to identify areas of agreement on the goals of globalization, and to promote the policies necessary to attain them.

11.30 a.m. - 1.00 p.m.

I. The common question: WHERE ARE WE NOW ?

Do you think the lives of the people of India have been enriched or diminished by the current process of globalization?

Comments are invited with particular reference to :

a) The human condition: a) identity, community and values; b) employment, livelihoods, and social protection; c) health, education and the environment.

b) The values which underpin Indian society and polity: democracy, social justice, secularism and gender equality.

c) Who are the current winners and losers from globalization in our society? Do the new opportunities opened up by globalization outweigh the new insecurities and inequalities?

d) Has our national sovereignty been impaired or strengthened by the process of global integration?
II. The specific questions : WHAT DO WE DO?

How should the process of globalization be changed, or utilised, to benefit the lives of our people?

Comments are invited in the following specific areas:

1. Group on Industry, Labour, Agriculture

   a) How can national employment and productivity be promoted within the emerging global economy?

   b) What are the key policy issues at i) sectoral, ii) local level?

   c) How can social dialogue be strengthened to help reduce social conflict? Are current institutional and organisational structures for social dialogue in India adequate at a time of accelerated social and economic change?

2. Group on Government and Media

   What changes are called for in national and international policies to optimise the potential of globalization?

   National Policies :

   a) How should the role of the State change with respect to (i) markets and (ii) civil society?

   b) What should be done to identify and develop the key national capabilities necessary to optimise benefits from the global economy - (eg. policies and institutions in the areas of: human development; infrastructure; and social organisation)?

   c) How can social protection be strengthened in an era of market competition?

   International Policies :

   a) Are the international “rules of the game” fair? How should international policies and negotiations change in the areas of finance, trade and development to bring the benefits of globalization to more countries and more people? How can these policies and negotiations be made more transparent?

   b) What are the policy issues for the Indian media in an era of globalization? What needs to be done?
2. Group on NGOs and Parliament

a) How can globalization bring benefit to local communities?

b) How can the benefits be made more inclusive in terms of social groups (including religious communities and caste groups), gender, and geographical regions within the country?

c) How can the policies and institutions of globalization be made more democratically accountable?
   - Should international organizations be subject to greater national parliamentary oversight?
   - How can new technologies help to deepen democracy by empowering social actors and promoting social organisation?
   - How can political parties and Parliament better interact with civil society and community organisations? How can "representation" be reconciled with "voice"?

3. Group on Education, Culture, and the Arts

a) What is a realizable vision in a global economy of a decent life for people?

b) What educational opportunities and systems are required for people to benefit from increasing global integration?

c) Can globalization promote cultural diversity on the basis of shared values?

d) Is a cosmopolitan identity consistent with national self worth? How can they be made compatible?

e) Can India contribute to or influence the global identity and, if so, how?

****************************************************